32 Fire Victims Left Homeless

Thirty-two persons were left homeless Sunday morning about 4:55 when a fire on Main Street in Hazard completely destroyed two buildings and badly damaged a third. The residents were awakened by the blasts of a train whistle blown by an engineer of the L & N Railroad who spotted the blaze while working in the L & N yards.

One resident, King Helton, employed but had small income, was reported missing after the fire. Several of his personal effects, including glasses, wallet and chewing tobacco, were found on a table in the frame building, but after several investigations by the local fire department officials, it was determined that Helton was not in the building at the time of the fire, but was at the building around 4:00 a.m. according to occupants.

Origin of Fire

According to Fire Chief "Shorty" Sizemore, the fire started in the rear of the two-story frame apartment building, formerly known as the Union Messenger building, which was destroyed. A nearby frame residence, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jarrell and family, was also destroyed and a concrete block apartment building adjoining the frame building was damaged heavily.

The two apartment buildings were the property of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nolan of Manchester, and the house belonged to Henry Campbell of Hazard. It is reported that neither of the owners plan to rebuild the buildings due to the fact that the property is included in the Main Street Urban Renewal project. The buildings were partly covered by insurance.

Woman Rescued

Firemen rescued one woman, Mattie Collins, about 54, by ladder. Four firemen were injured slightly from the falling tar off the roof of the frame building, and Chief Sizemore was treated for a burn on his right arm.

All of the residents were un-

The National Red Cross, which has declared this a National Disaster, has sent a representative here to help re-habilitate the fire victims. The fire originated in the rear of the two-story frame building, left, and spread to the adjoining buildings.

Attorney C. C. Wells, who represented the two, implied the case would be appealed to a higher court.

Both defendants gave their address as Metropolis, Illinois. Mr. Hamish Sinclair of New York filled Goss' bond.

The defendants have been seen in and around Hazard for some time and are working for the Appalachian Committee for Full Employment at their office on High Street.

The project will begin 2.5 miles northwest of the junction of Ky. 80 and Ky. 15 at Bulan and extend to Ky. 267, a distance of 4.3 miles.

Perry Fiscal Court Awards Courthouse Bid To W.D. Johnson

Perry County Fiscal Court today awarded the contract for the new Perry County courthouse and jail to W. D. Johnson of Ashland, Kentucky, in the second bidding for the construction of the building. Johnson's base bid was $818,300.

Two other companies, Forcum-Lannon Inc., of Tennessee and National Construction Company, Inc., of Cincinnati, also bid on the courthouse.

Forcum-Lannon's base bid registered $872,100 while the National Construction Company's base bid read $848,760.

Mr. Johnson signed the contract this morning in the County Judge's office after all the Perry County Magistrates voted to accept the low bid of Johnson.

After the meeting County Judge Babe Noplis said that construction will begin by July 1, if the Housing and Finance Agency in Atlanta, Georgia, approves the awarding of the bid.

County officials Judge Noplis and County Attorney Calvin Manis plan to leave for Atlanta tomorrow. Judge Noplis has been given authority by the Fiscal Court to sign any papers necessary to begin construction.

Johnson, who won the contract in the first bid here April 30, when he bid $722,500, sent a letter to the Fiscal Court the following day stating that he had made an error of $100,000, in the bidding.

A federal official at the meeting that day told the Fiscal Court to give Johnson 24 hours to review his bid for errors. Johnson then sent a letter to the court the next day that said, in part:

"Since my mistaken bid of $722,500 has not been accepted, I hereby withdraw and rescind this bid. My bid should be in the sum of $822,500."

Examining Trial For Estill Holbrook Set For June 25

The preliminary hearing for Estill Holbrook of Leatherwood was rescheduled from last Friday to this Thursday, June 25, at 10 a.m. in Perry County Court for the murdering of Robert Couch.

Holbrook's attorney, Sam Ward, requested that the hearing be reset.

Holbrook allegedly killed Robert Couch also of Leatherwood on a Hazard street June 10. Couch was Holbrook's uncle and the father of 12 children.

The incident took place on Lovern Street shortly after noon when Holbrook and Couch had left the County Courthouse after a Breach of Peace charge.

An argument broke out with Couch and Holbrook's brother and when they began fighting Estill went to his parked car in the city parking lot and got a rifle. He then came back and when Couch started toward him, Holbrook fired the shots that killed Couch according to police reports.

Hospitals to Be Program Subject

Operations of Appalachian Regional Hospitals will be the subject of a half-hour program on WSAZ-TV, Huntington, W. Va., Saturday, June 27, at 3:30 p.m. E.S.T.

Dr. Karl S. Klicka of Lexington, president of the non-profit, non-sectarian organization, will discuss operations of the community hospitals with WSAZ-TV News Director Bos Johnson.

Appalachian Regional Hospitals operates facilities in Hazard, Harlan, Whitesburg, McDowell and Middlesboro, and on July 1 will acquire ownership of Miners Memorial Hospitals at Pikeville and South Williamson, Ky.; Beckley and Man, W. Va., and Wise, Va.

WSAZ-TV is received locally on Channel 3.

The Fiscal Court had to pass another resolution to make the bid possible today because the bid was $47,800 higher than Manis, they anticipated.

According to Judge Noplis, the county has the funds to increase the project $47,800.

County Attorney Calvin Manis said that the Federal Grant expires June 28, 1964, and that the contract is not signed by that date the nearly $500,000 bid was not acceptable.

U.K. Freshmen To Enroll Easy This Fall

This year's incoming freshmen at the University of Kentucky will find September enrollment a breeze.

That will be true, at least, for the 85 to 90 per cent of the class who are expected to take part in the University's summer orientation program for freshmen.

The program, as UK officials see it, has a double benefit. It permits newcomers to complete most of the registration and classification process at a time when the campus is less crowded and when faculty and administrators have greater opportunity to assist. And by registering most of the out-sized freshman class in advance, it reduces congestion at the September registration period when upperclassmen come flocking back.

The summer-oriented freshman who learns his way about the campus in advance, is generally better adjusted and thus more equipped to settle quickly into the routine of classwork when the fall semester begins. This year's orientation at UK will start June 29 and continue each Monday, Wednesday and Friday through July 24.

All students accepted into the freshman class are strongly urged to attend one of the day-long orientation sessions, accompanied by their parents if possible. Soon after notice of his admission, each student is given a choice of available orientation dates and asked to notify the University when he will attend. About 85 per cent of last year's incoming freshmen took part in the summer orientation.

At a typical session, each new student meets the dean of the college in which he plans to enroll, is assigned an academic advisor and, with the latter's help, makes out his class schedule for the fall semester. Guides are on hand at all times to escort the newcomers to the various points in the registration line.

Meanwhile, parents of the incoming students are given an opportunity to meet informally with the dean of men, dean of women and other student services leaders. They also are taken on a guided tour of the campus, including residence halls, the University Health Service, classroom buildings and recreation centers.

The summer orientation program now is in its third year at UK. Officials are convinced it has proved its value in the two preceding years by assisting newcomers through an otherwise confusing stage of their college careers and by showing parents the surroundings in which their sons and daughters will live and study.

Approximately 2,000 freshmen are expected to participate in this summer's orientation program. No student is eligible to take part until he has taken the American College Test and been notified of his acceptance as a member of the freshman class.

Piano Audition Held Here

The National Piano Playing Audition for Hazard and vicinity was held at the Presbyterian Church recently.

Forty-five students from the classes of Mrs. Bertie Turner and Mrs. Bertha Kelly took part in the event.

Auditions are comparable to the final examinations in the public school with this difference, they are held under an examiner, who is an eminent musician, sent from Guild Headquarters to judge the attainments in music.

A system of musical goals for piano students of the nation, developed through the past twenty-five years by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, furnishes the teachers country-wide with a flexible curriculum for beginners to artist classification. The rules and regulations for passing each goal become the law on which the student is judged.

All those who are passed by the examiner gain membership for one year in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. There are various types of membership classes according to the pieces programmed by the student.

The names of the piano students who obtained membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians are: Rosalind, Jr., National Fraternity Membership; Eddie Fugate, Jim Gullett, Doug Holliday, Sharon Brashear, Nora Lee Brashear, Debbie McFyre, Jennie Campbell, Evelyn Brown, Molly Ann Eversole, Eileen Cornett, Elizabeth Barret, Deborah Olinger, and Mary Carol Eversole, all State Fraternity Membership.

Letter From Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

John Sherman Cooper Receives Honorary Degree From Yale

Once I asked my husband: "What would you like more than anything in the world?" He answered, "An honorary degree from Yale, but I doubt if I ever get it." His wish came true Monday, the 15th.

We left Washington on Sunday afternoon with the Averell Harrimans and flew directly to New Haven, where we stayed with the Charles Gages (he is the Treasurer of Yale) in their beautiful Greek revival house next to President Brewster's.

Brewster's President and Mrs. Brewster gave a large dinner Sunday night for the people receiving honorary degrees and the members of the Yale Council and faculty. The recipients of the honorary degrees were a fascinating mixture, thirteen in all, including Sargent Shriver of the Peace Corps; Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt, the great husband and wife team of the theatre; Philip Abelson, the physicist who developed our nuclear submarines; Dr. Martin Luther King; Edward S. Brown of Harvard; and Averell Harriman.

We went to bed early to be ready for the Monday graduation ceremonies. I was told that Yale is very fortunate, as it has never rained for the commencement exercises, and this day was particularly beautiful. The wives of the recipients of the honorary degrees walked with Mrs. Brewster to the huge campus lawn, shaded by noble oaks and elms, to watch the procession pass. The colors, the band and the candidates for degrees in the Yale college had assembled earlier in the courtyard of the residential colleges to pass through the gateway and proceed to the New Haven Green. The very colorful procession was led by President Brewster, who was followed by the members of the Council and the thirteen recipients of the honorary degrees. Some of the members of the Council, like Dean Acheson and Jack Whitney, wore brilliant silks, with pie-shaped caps instead of the usual mortarboards, which comes from honorary degrees received at Oxford, England.

Academic gowns represent a tradition handed down from the universities of the Middle Ages. These institutions were founded by the Church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear the prescribed gowns at all times. Round caps later became square mortarboards; the hoods, originally cowls attached to the gowns, could be slipped over the head for warmth.

Many European universities have distinctive caps and gowns which are different from those commonly used in this country. Some of the gowns are of bright colors and some are embellished with fur. A number of these may be noted in the procession.

After the procession had passed, we went to our seats in front of the platform, which was covered by a huge Yale-blue canopy that seemed suspended in the air and open on all sides. The American flag was stationed to the right and the Yale flag to left, and on either side of them were the traditional flags of the residential colleges—twelve in number. There are so many graduates that they do not receive their diplomas personally from the President, but stand when their degrees are conferred upon them. We then sang Psalm LXV the same one sung the opening of the first college building in 1718.

Then came the conferring of honorary degrees by President Brewster. Every recipient was greeted by bursts of applause from the thousands of spectators, but when Dr. Martin Luther King's name was called the entire campus gave him a standing ovation. When my husband received his degree, I thought the citation so great that I am quoting it here in full.

"It is the good fortune of our Nation that the Senate of the United States raises a few of its members to a height of statesmanship which transcends partisanship and personal politics. You have achieved the affection and admiration of political adversaries and allies alike, and by the breadth of your wisdom and the integrity of your character have represented not only the Commonwealth of Kentucky but the heritage and promise of the whole Nation. Your alma mater takes pride in conferring upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws."

Guests were Mrs. F. L. Parsons of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Arnold Gene Feltner, of Alexandria, Va.; Miss Barbara Severs of Beavard, North Carolina; Mrs. C. E. Feltner and the Feltner family.

Greetings to all friends and former citizens of Buckhorn and surrounding areas. Bonds of friendship bind us together very closely. Upon an urgent request from Mrs. Nolan I will endeavor with your assistance to supply "The Herald" a weekly column.

This has truly been a very busy spring and summer. Much is happening and becoming history. I do wish we could have it recorded for future personnel. You can help by supplying me with bits of news.

Our Big Rock Bottom Baptist Church, located on Squabble Creek, four miles from Buckhorn, seems to be growing in spirit as well as in numbers. We have a bus, which transports those who avail themselves of this service. The bus is filled to capacity every Sunday. Our average attendance is sixty. We are beginning construction of an addition for educational purposes.

Sunday, June 14, our visiting ministers were: Rev. Woodrow Bentley, Rev. John Woods, Rev. Seldon Davidson, and Rev. Richmond Wilson. On June 21, Rev. O. B. Gabbard was a visitor and taught the adult Sunday School class. Recent additions include Donna Faye Combs, Rev. and Mrs. Green L. Hamblin, and Garret and Lizzie Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. Crit Keen entertained on Sunday, June 21, two of their sons, Dr. Quentin Keen and Leon Keen, from Richmond, and their only daughter, Jean, and her family; Dr. Clyde Wooton, and Dwight Wooton, of Hazard.

Mr. and Mrs. Crit Keen, Dr. Quentin Keen, and Leon Keen went to the Buckhorn Park and Lodge.

Daphne Barger and her children, Rusty and Deborah Kay, Darrell Lee, and Carol Lynn have returned to their home after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Spurlock.

Peter and Isabella Riley, together with their son-in-law, Frank Gay, Jr., and many grandchildren are visiting relatives and friends.

Our son and daughter-in-law, Russell K. and Billie Hamblin, have returned to their home in Marshall, Texas, where he is employed as postal clerk. They left us six grandchildren for

DO-IT-YOURSELF BRIDAL BUFFET

With enough advance planning and organization, do-it-yourself bridal festivities can be as elegant as catered affairs. One thing that is traditionally part of the festivities is a sterling silver — both as the traditional gift to the bride from her parents, and to provide gleaming beauty for pre-nuptial parties. The table arrangement for a bridal buffet such as this, was governed by beauty, balance and convenience for the guests. The sterling flatware, along with napkins and beverage, should be placed so that guests pick them up last. The food and plates should be within easy reach of guests serving themselves.

The menu for this easy, elegant mode of serving should be in keeping with the festive mood. But do plan a menu that can be prepared well in advance — this one for instance:

Lobster or Shrimp Newberg
Peas and Scallops in Butter Sauce
Spiced Pears
Molded Vegetable Salad
Wedding Cake with Ice Cream

They will be the company's guests at the Mayflower Hotel there, due to the fact that Mr. Benton is in the top twenty-five sales bracket in the company.

Unsettled Weather Hurts State Fishing

White bass, crappie and blue gill continue to dominate the Kentucky fishing scene. The unsettled weather conditions of the past several days are responsible for the lag in fishing activity at the major impoundments, according to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Following is a lake by lake rundown.

Nolin Reservoir—Black bass best by casting surface lures and still fishing minnows. Trout lining for cats fair to good at night on live and cut bait. Some bluegill by still fishing worms off rocky points. Temperature 85, clear and rising slowly.

Rough River—Black bass fair by casting deep runners and surface lures along deep banks. Some scattered catches of white bass in the jumps. Temperature 87, clear and stable.

Guist Creek—Good bluegill fishing with worms. Crappie fair on minnows at 15 feet. Temperature 82, clear and stable.

Dale Hollow—White bass best by casting surface lures and still fishing minnows at 30 feet. Black bass fair on surface lures in the early morning. Crappie fishing slow. Temperature 80, clear and stable.

Kentucky Lake—White bass best in the bridge area on minnows. Some blacks by casting the very late afternoon. Blue-surface lures in the early morning. Crappie and bluegill fish and black bass. Temperature 80, clear and stable.

Dewey Lake—Fishing slow. Best in the bridge area on minnows. Some blacks by casting the very late afternoon. Blue-surface lures in the early morning. Crappie and bluegill fish and black bass. Temperature 80, clear and stable.

"I'M A MUCH MORE RELAXED PERSON"

The lady who wrote this is a busy, energetic housewife in New York.

"I'm a much more relaxed person," she wrote Beltone recently, "since I have a hearing aid fitted to my own particular hearing loss."

This lady has a severe hearing handicap - Osteosclerosis - which worsens as time goes by.

Her previous hearing aid was not one that had been fitted to her particular loss. Any "sharp" sounds made her jump.

There is no way that I can tell you what a difference it makes to wear a hearing aid that accurately fits your individual hearing situation. The only way you can be sure that you are wearing the right aid for you is by having an electronic hearing test made with a precision audiometer. This is a simple, fast way of learning the truth about your hearing.

Such a test doesn't take a lot of your time, and it needn't cost you anything. I will give you a FREE electronic hearing test using a Beltone Audiometer - an instrument that is used in clinics, hospitals and universities for hearing evaluation. In my office or in your home, if you prefer. Just phone me for an appointment. No obligation of course.

18,000 Students Expected At UK Within 12 Years

What will the University of Kentucky be like in the middle 1970's?

Although no man can answer that question today with absolute certainty, UK President John W. Oswald is in a position to make an educated prediction. On the basis of current population figures, coupled with projections of available statistics on the number of high school graduates who attend college, Dr. Oswald is convinced that UK must prepare for an enrollment of 18,000 students on its Lexington campus by 1975. By contrast, last year's Lexington enrollment was 8,500.

In addition, he says Dr. Oswald, UK's community colleges by 1975 will be accommodating approximately 5,500 students in comparison with the current 1,500. Thus, within 12 years, Wanda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeFord E. French of total about 23,500 students, he predicts.

Erwin Plummer Address Kiwanis At Meeting June 9

Erwin Plummer, of Hazard, Administrator of Child Welfare Agency, Buckhorn, Kentucky, for Witherspoon College, addressed the Kiwanis meeting, Tuesday evening, June 9th, at the V. F. W.

"There are four plans carried out in administering child welfare at Buckhorn", he said, as follows: (1) To work the children in their own homes. (2) To train the children at school if they have an adequate home. (3) Training them in an adopted home. (4) Training in school dormitory. In many families, children get the idea that Mom and Dad are omnipotent and are resentful if too much obedience is being required. Some are just the opposite. In pre-school experience they have acquired a resentful feeling toward their own parents, causing them later to become angry with their "school mother" or maybe "big sister" at school.

A 12 year old boy's home, named Gabbard Cottage, has been built recently and is very successful.

Elmer Campbell was program chairman.

W. R. Hatcher of Hazard, who is with the Eastern Brokerage Company, was a guest at the meeting, also Gilberto Hinojosa, a Mexican boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Caudill, was president as their guest while on vacation. He begins work on a Doctor's Degree in University of Illinois the coming year.

VA QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am 68 and self-employed. My net earnings are usually over $4800 each year; however, there are always one or more months in the year when I don't work at all. Would it do any good to file for social security now?

A—Yes. Benefits can be paid for any month in which you do not work, regardless of your total earnings for the year.

Q—I am past 65 and working steady for $150 a month during the year. Am I entitled to any benefits for the year?

A—Yes. Earnings of $150 a month would amount to $1800 a year. Your social security benefit would be reduced by $350 for the year.

Q—I am 66 and still work full time as a teacher. My earnings amount to over $6,000 a year. However, I do not teach during the summer months of July and August. Should I file for social security benefits for these two months each year?

A—Yes. Benefits can be paid for any month in which you do not earn over $100 in a month, even though as in the case of some teachers, you are still paid in those months.

New Soft Ice Cream For Cool Summer Refreshment

VANILLA GELATO is a refreshing, nourishing dessert that your family will heartily enjoy on a hot summer's day. All that is required to make it is a few moments of your time and six simple, inexpensive ingredients. This gelato is a modern version of the soft ice cream that has been served in the sunny streets of Italy for centuries. Developed by Carnation Company's home economists, the recipe combines instant nonfat dry milk crystals with whole milk for extra milk nutrition. The gelato is very delicate, very fresh . . . with an especially cool look to it and a smooth, silky consistency. Once it is prepared, it may be kept frozen in refrigerator trays until just before serving. It may then be spooned or piped through a pastry tube into chilled glasses.

VANILLA GELATO
(makes 9 to 12 servings)

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups instant nonfat dry milk crystals

1 quart whole milk
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Stir instant crystals into whole milk; blend in softened gelatin and sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Cool. Stir in vanilla. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze until firm; then beat until smooth.

Law Allows Citizens To Protect Against Misuse Of Waterways

A law passed by the 1964 Kentucky Legislature, Frankfort, gives local citizens the right to bring legal action against the misuse of waterways affecting them.

State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlick explained that under the law, effective June 18, a citizen may seek a $1,000. A citizen could recover, restraining order in the proper court to stop the illegal practice of dumping waste and debris into streams and lakes, to issue a restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction against any person, firm, partnership, corporation, association, or organization, or any combination thereof, who is guilty of violating the law to mayors, county judges county attorneys, county court clerks, and circuit court clerks.

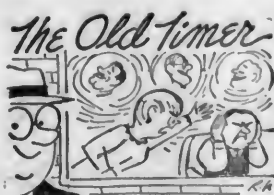

Steve Wakefield, director of flood control and water usage, said the old law left some doubt that a citizen could protect himself in the courts against stream abuses. Now, his right to initiate court action is clarified.

The new law says no person, city, county, or other political subdivision shall deposit or cause to be deposited any matter or debris — including waste from strip-mine operations — that would restrict the flow of water in the channel or in the floodway of any stream.

The chief executive officer of cities, such as mayors, and county judges are assigned the statutory authority to enforce the law in the name of the deputy commissioner of conserva-

Violation of the law carries a fine not to exceed $1,000. A citizen could recover, restraining order in the proper court to stop the illegal practice of dumping waste and debris into streams and lakes, to issue a restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction against any person, firm, partnership, corporation, association, or organization, or any combination thereof, who is guilty of violating the law to mayors, county judges county attorneys, county court clerks, and circuit court clerks.

As in the past, the Conservation Department's Division of Flood Control and Water Usage must approve plans and specifications for any construction, reconstruction, or improvement across or along any stream in the state. The sole exception is work done by the State Department of Highways.

Tests On PKU To Be Taken

Franklin and Fayette Counties will take part in a pilot project on testing for phenylketonuria (PKU), a metabolic disease which can cause mental retardation unless diagnosed and treated early in the life of a baby, according to Dr. Helen B. Fraser, director of Maternal and Child Health, State Department of Health. The testing project which will be underway by July has been approved by the medical societies of both counties.

The test to be used in these counties is called the Guthrie test and is made on a drop or two of blood from a baby. Samples will be taken with the parents' consent, while the baby is still in the hospital. This test is thought to be more sensitive than the urine test for PKU which is being offered statewide. In addition it can be successfully made earlier in the baby's life.

Samples for the Guthrie test will be run at the Department of Health Laboratories, where two additional microbiologists have been employed to do this work along with other specialized duties. They are Charles Green, formerly with the University of Kentucky Medical Center, who comes to the state from Tennessee, and Glenn Powell, formerly with the Louisville-Jefferson County Health Department.
